IN MEMORIAM

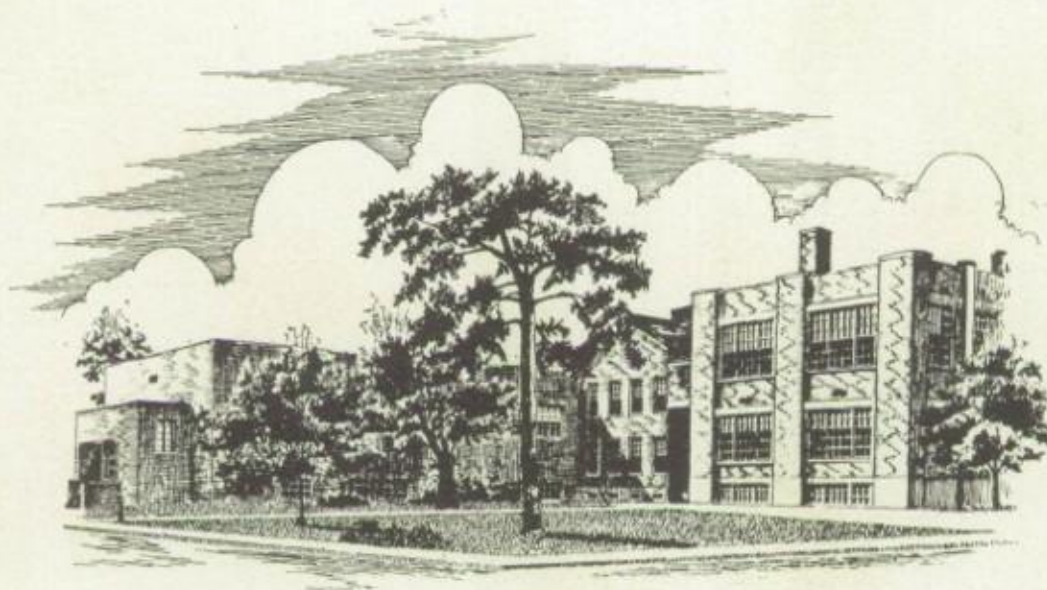

MISS MILDRED SHAFFER

Seven Mile School lost one of the best teachers in its long history as Miss Mildred Shaffer died Thursday, December 23, 1954. Miss Shaffer, commercial teacher for over fourteen years, will always be remembered for her high standards in conduct and quality of performance expected in her students, for her uncomplaining acceptance of physical handicaps, and for her intense devotion to duty.

Although not physically well during her tenure at Seven Mile, she was always ready to accept, and volunteer for more, all duties that came along during the school year. Many former students will long look back on their high school classes and thank Miss Shaffer for the high standards that she insisted on their maintaining. Their performance will always be a shining memorial to her memory.

Superintendent

Your commencement exercises mark the end of your high school days and the beginning of either your life work or more specialized learning for your life job. We hope that you have already been thinking of the American way of life in contrast to that of other types of government.

We, as teachers, have failed in our job unless you have learned carefully to evaluate and discard inferior ways of life. You must be prepared to work toward improvement of our government and to fight efforts to discredit or change it. Remember the old phrase, if it is worth having, it is worth fighting for. May you enjoy a happy and peaceful life.
